

FRTEP – The 2021 RFA – Approaches and Ideas for Submitting Proposals

Webinar: November 19, 2021 Beginning at [2:00pm (ET) / 1:00 pm (CT) / 12:00pm (MT) / 11:00am (PT)]
[90 minute ZOOM presentation]

Draft Agenda as of 10/26/21

General Goals:

- Outline the new FRTEP RFA with its deadlines.
- Describe basic requirements for a submission?
- Promote good practices for collaboration and partnerships among tribes, 1994s and 1862s (even 1890s).
- Share successful approaches to program goals
- Share successful approaches to writing proposals (writing tips and finding support for writing)

DRAFT AGENDA:

- I. FRTEP – The 2021 RFA: Background, Components, Eligibility, Deadlines and More!
 - Erin Riley, National Program Leader, Division of Community and Education, Institute of Youth, Family and Community - NIFA

- II. Thinking beyond what we do every day - addressing the opportunities of what we can do.
 - John Phillips, Executive Director, First American Land-Grant Consortium (FALCON)

- III. Effective programming, strong partnerships and good practices in proposal development
 - Jim Gray, North Dakota State University
 - Dave Ivan, Community Development Program Leader, Michigan State University
 - Mike Wiggins, Tribal Council Chair, Bad River Tribe (Northern Wisconsin)

- IV. Best Practices in Proposal Development
 - Joe Hiller, former Head of the American Indian Studies Program: Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station and Assistant Director of Cooperative Extension (retired); and also former FRTEP principal investigator, University of Arizona
 - Maureen McCarthy, Division Earth & Ecosystem Sciences, and Project Director, Native Waters on Arid Lands at the Desert Research Institute (Nevada)

- V. Open Dialog & Questions – may address any (or more) of the following
 - ✓ Major challenges in developing a proposal
 - ✓ Identifying essential collaborators
 - ✓ Important elements and components in proposals
 - ✓ Finding help in proposal development

- VI. Final remarks and reminders of important deadlines.

North Central Cooperative Extension Association